

- 1 400 years ago, Christmas mince pies were made of chopped meat, rather than fruit. The crust on top was formed from a piece of pastry in the shape of a baby. The mince pie was rectangular in shape, representing the Christ-Child in the Manger.
- 2 Nowadays mince pies are made with mixed fruit of currants, sultanas, and the peel of lemons and oranges. At Christmas-time, nuts and dates are often bought, along with some less-common fruits such as mandarins, clementines, nectarines and satsumas - all varieties of orange.
- 3 720,000 tons of oranges were destroyed in Europe in 1993. They were fit for human consumption, as were the apples - nearly a million tons of them - also destroyed that year by the European Union. Nearly three million tons of perfectly good fruit and vegetables were destroyed that year - mostly by being buried in the ground and allowed to rot.
- 4 This was done according to the agricultural policy of the European Union, paying farmers to destroy some of their crops rather than have "too much food" on the market, causing prices to drop. This policy cost British taxpayers £57 million in 1993.
- 5 Let us pray:

God our loving Father,
our governments
spend money in our name to subsidise farmers to "set aside" good agricultural land
so that less food is produced.
Some potatoes and other good crops are sprayed with dyes
to make them unfit
for human consumption,
and it is policy
to destroy good harvests of fruit and vegetables.

Yet our brothers and sisters go hungry and die
across the world.
Lead us to grow
in valuing the dignity
of all people,
as well as in respect for the fruit of the earth and the work of human hands.
Inspire us to be of influence in our own part of the world so that injustices -wherever they exist-may be challenged,
and all people learn to grow together as caring and responsible brothers and sisters.
Amen.
